

Transforming lives through education

2021

Our vision is our future

Since 1994 Navitas has been transforming lives through education. This is our core purpose and it hasn't changed, but we have a new, more ambitious vision. We want to be the best global education provider in the world for our students, partners and people.

We have always had an unrelenting focus on our students, which starts before they begin their journey with us and continues until they graduate or successfully transition to our partner universities. At every stage we are committed to delivering an exceptional student experience and the best possible academic outcomes. Our proud history has shown when you get those elements right, everything flows from there.

It is a philosophy we share with our university partners. Working collaboratively we can deliver the programs, support and diverse educational experience students need to graduate from university ready to meet the changing needs of the world's economies and communities. We are immensely proud of the students who pass through our colleges, many of whom are the first in their families to go to university. Our graduates are a generation of strong, inspiring and truly global citizens who are well placed to become the leaders of tomorrow.

We have a renewed focus on developing and rewarding our employees, particularly those at the 'front line', who personally support, encourage and nurture the students that come through our doors. It is their passion and commitment to delivering for our students that helps to ensure each one of them has the opportunity to reach their potential.

For our university partners, our new vision means consistently proving ourselves as trusted and responsive.

We want to be judged as the best, and we want to drive all facets of the organisation to ensure we hit the mark with every one of our relationships and partners.

Beyond our students, partners and people, we want to contribute to the global community within which we operate. Looking to the future, we want to transform more lives in more meaningful ways. The Navitas Education Trust allows us to do just that.

Best regards,

Scott Jones
Group CEO Navitas

Who we are

Navitas has helped generations of learners change their lives through education. Over the last 40 years, hundreds of thousands of learners from around the world have graduated from Navitas colleges, having experienced a teaching and learning environment that supports them to harness their talents and achieve their dreams.

Our success is underpinned by our unparalleled international network, a peerless commitment to student experiences and outcomes, a track record of working in partnership with universities and industry, and a passion for discovering new technologies and models of teaching and learning that will improve education now and into the future.

Higher and Vocational Education

Our independent higher education providers offer accredited certificate, diploma, degree and postgraduate programs that equip learners with the skills they need to make valuable contributions to industry and society. Specialising in creative media, human services, business and technology disciplines, our world-leading colleges offer a diverse range of programs both across Australia and around the world to meet industry demand and the needs of learners.

Language and Employability Skills

We deliver English language and testing services and language, literacy, digital and employability programs to help a diverse range of clients develop essential skills.

Our professional development and workplace training programs offer students the skills and experience needed to maximise their employment prospects while our leadership development programs are helping to prepare and strengthen the leaders of tomorrow.

Navitas in the community

The Navitas Education Trust

Drawing inspiration from our purpose of transforming lives through education, the Navitas Education Trust (NET) provides support to charitable organisations with an education focus to bring about change where it is most needed.

Since 2013, NET grants have helped our partners achieve tremendous education outcomes in communities around the world; delivering hard classroom infrastructure, teaching resources, scholarships, mentoring support and teacher training programs, and helping more women and girls access education.

The underlying principle of the NET is that access to quality education is essential to building better futures, and is a core component of the sustainable development of any community. Successful applicants are those who demonstrate a genuine, well-researched education need, and how funding from the NET will contribute to improving access to education, and the quality of educational offerings.

The Navitas Education Trust is a vital component of our commitment to being good global citizens; and to generating change with long term educational benefits for children and young people worldwide.

Classroom of Hope

Our longest running NET partner is Classroom of Hope. Classroom of Hope is a remarkable non-profit organisation providing access to quality education in developing countries. NET funding continues to go towards the Building for Education project in Cambodia, which supports children and youth in accessing education by building educational infrastructure.

Classroom of Hope's purpose aligns closely with that of Navitas; to provide access to quality education for children living in developing countries. Through their work, they continually demonstrate the impact education can have on improving gender equality and economic growth, and helping to lift people out of poverty.

Our teaching staff are increasingly becoming more involved with the work of the Navitas Education Trust, and two members of our teaching staff recently attended the opening ceremony of a Classroom of Hope NET-funded school in Cambodia.

We are very proud of our partnership with Classroom of Hope and through the Navitas Education Trust we will continue to strive for more children to gain access to quality education.

To date,
funding from the NET has helped to build 12 schools with Classroom of Hope,
improving accessibility to education for over 4000 students.

Our proud history

We started over 25 years ago with a big idea: to change the way the world learns. And we're still shaping the landscape of education today.

Our success has been built on partnerships and pathways. Navitas founder Rod Jones first pioneered the university pathway concept with PIBT (Perth Institute of Business Technology - now Edith Cowan College) in 1994. His vision was to help students from around the world realise their ambitions by providing pathways to university study in Australia.

The programs offer international students a nurturing and supportive environment in which to begin their academic studies while preparing them to join a partner university's mainstream degree program.

The model was successful from the start, providing value for our partner universities and exceptional outcomes for our students. Within a decade, we had established university pathway programs across Australia, and in 2000 took the same model to the UK. We now have university partnerships in the USA, Canada and New Zealand and are one of the best-known brands in global pathway education. Many of our colleges have now extended their offering to domestic students and applied the same caring and empathic principles that have been so successful with international students.

Alongside the growth of our university partnerships, we have built an impressive portfolio of stand-alone colleges offering higher education, vocational and skills-based programs to learners around the world. This began with the acquisition of the ACL Group in 2005 (making us the largest English language provider in Australia), and continued with the acquisitions of ACAP (the Australian College of Applied Psychology), SAE Creative Media Institute (our global creative media education provider), and the Australian School of Applied Management (ASAM).

Our brands, global footprint and product offering are diverse, but we are united in our commitment to deliver the best possible outcomes for our learners and our partners.
